Thursday, September 9. 1708.

Vienna, Aug. 29.

TIS advis'd from Italy, that the Pope, notwithstanding the great Stir he makes, is not averse at bottom to come to an Accommodation with the Emperour: However, that in any Case the Imperial Arms in Italy may not be found in an ill Condition, this Court has resolv'd to raise, with all Diligence the necessary Recruits for the Troops there, and to send them over the Mountains before Winter. The Advantages obtain'd by General Heister in Hungary, the Allies in the Netherlands, and the Duke of Savoy on the Frontier of Dauphine, have induc'd many of the Malecontent Hungarians to think 'tis Time to put an End to the War in their Country. To improve that Disposition in them, it has been represented to them by Friends of this Court, that the Turks have sufficiently shewn they are to expect no Assistance from them, and that the King of France has enough to do to look to his own Affairs; and that 'tis certainly their Interest to take the present Opportunity of falling in with the Emperour's earnest Inclination (notwithstanding the superiority of his Arms) to see Tranquillity re-established in Hungary. The Hungarians have intimated on their Part, that they will not insist on the Abrogating of the Right of the House of Austria to the Hereditary Succession of that Kingdom; which they own to have been a Design set up by some particular Persons for private Ends, but that the Generality of the Malecontents never concurred in it, as appears by their forbearance to proceed any further than to a bare Declaration that the Throne was become Vacant. Hence we entertain Hopes, that an Accommodation may shortly be happily brought about, to the Satisfaction of both Parties.

Vienna, Sept. 1. One of the Leaders of the Malecontents, nam'd Oskay, is come over to the Imperialists with his intire Regiment of Hussars; after he had been assur'd by Count Palsi Ban of Croatia of the Emperour's Pardon and Favour. He has also caus'd a Castle belonging to that Count, of which the Malecontents were possess'd, to be deliver'd up; by which a Passage is open'd to the Mountainous Parts of Upper Hungary. Letters from Presburg say they had certain Advice there, that Anthony Esterhazy and Berezedi, two other Chiefs of the Malecontents, are actually treating with the Imperial Generals for their Persons and the Troops under their Command; and that they have not only been assur'd of the Emperour's Pardon, but of being constantly entertain'd in his Service. Some pretend to know, that General Heister is gone to Papa, to treat personally with these Hungarian Generals, and receive (on certain Terms) them and their Troops. If this happen, it cannot but induce the rest of the Heads of the Hungarians to hearken to reasonable Propositions of Peace.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated Sept. 15. &c. Vienna, Sept. 1. The Pope has written to the Clergy of Hungary, that the Church is in Danger from the Attempts of the Emperour in Italy and elsewhere against the Pretensions of the Holy See; with the Design, no doubt, of Sowing Discord between his Imperial Majesty and his Clergy of that Kingdom. M. Ozkay, who with his Regiment of 700 well disciplin'd Dragoons is come over from the Malecontents to the Imperialists, is to keep the Command of that Regiment, to be promoted to the Rank of Major General, and to take Place of M. Hosky Collonel of Hussars on the Rhine. Count Esterhazy and Bothiani are both making their Accommodation, and will be receiv'd with open Arms. The War in Hungary is not like to last long, for the common Soldiers of the Malecontents retire to their Homes, refusing to keep in Arms any longer. The Marquis de Prie is commission'd to treat with the Court of Rome; and 'tis hop'd will perswade the College of Cardinals to attend to the Reason and Equity of things.

* The Harlem Courant makes their Number to be 2000.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated Sept. 14.

Letters from Vienna of the 1st of September, say there is great Misunderstanding among the Chief of the Hungarian Malecontents, some of whom appear to have a Design to make their Peace with the Emperour, after the Example of Ozkay; and that they begin to reproach one another for not accepting the favourable Propositions which were made to them last Year on the Part of the Emperour.

From the Harl. Cour. and Leid. Gaz. Sep. 13, & 14.

Rome, Aug. 25. All our Talk here is of War; the Levies are continued: 'Tis reckon'd 15000 Men are already lifted, and 'tis said 10000 more will be rais'd to serve for the Garrison of this City. The Count of San Martino, and Prince Pico of Mirandola, are nominated Collonels of Regiments of Foot.

From the Harlem Courant, dated Sept. 13.

Venice, Aug. 31. Letters from Bologna say, the Marquis de Prie had receiv'd Orders by an Express from Vienna to go to Rome to treat of an Accommodation between the two Courts: 'Tis said that some Cardinals, who have a true Concern for the common Cause, have represented to the Pope that the Emperour would suppress all Thoughts of a War against him, if his Holiness would be perswaded to an honourable Accommodation with him; and that the Pope assenting to their Reasons, has order'd the sacred College to Negociate an Agreement with his Imperial Majesty, provided due Regard be had therein to the Honour of the Holy See.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated Sept. 14.

Letters from Turin of the 29th of August advise, that all was ready before Fenestrelles for battering it the 28th with 40 Pieces of heavy Cannon and 10 Mortars; and by fresher advices 'tis said, that all the Artillery had begun to fire with such Success, that 'twas hop'd a sufficient Breach would soon be made, and in Consequence the Place reduc'd: That the Marshal de Villars had advanc'd into the Neighbourhood, and sought a Passage by which to convey Succours into it; but that there was no probability of his succeeding, all the Passages being possess'd and vigilantly guarded by the Troops of his Royal Highness. The Count de Medavi was in Motion likewise in the Tarantaise, proposing to break into the Valley of Aoste; but his Royal Highness had determin'd not to stir from before Fenestrelles, for any Diversion that might be made, till he had taken it: And in the mean Time he had sent some Cavalry to the Valley of Barcelonette, to give the Enemy Employment. The Detachment of the Enemy which made an Irruption into the Valley of Viu, have retir'd back into Savoy with some Booty.

Some Letters from Paris of the 10th of September, say Fenestrelles began to Capitulate the 1st.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated Sept. 13.

Turin, Aug. 29. The Enemy carried off 2000 Head of Cattle from the Valley of Viu. General Medavi has made an Irruption into the Duchy of Aoste with 20 Battallions, has put that Part of the Country under Contribution, and siez'd 6000 Sacks of Corn which were provided for the Allies. Our Duke will not be diverted by these Irruptions from the Siege of Fenestrelles; and the Horse he has detach'd to the Valley of Barcelonette give the Enemy great Uneasyness.
